

This is my very first solo production. When "The Mub" splitted in late 1985, I intended to release some music by myself. But I never did it. Now, more than twenty years later, it is ready at last. The first, I did (2004), was to account for the past, resulting in the website www.matscheko.at. Hearing all the old stuff of Ixthuluh was an interesting experience. I bought something of this modern home-recording-stuff, to plug it into my notebook. In tradition to the old methods of "Ixthuluh" I try to record studio-jams without great claim to perfection, this is quick'n dirty. By this the music is no studio-work, but no live-act too. The music is my very own thing. I work regardless and without inspiring example. Come and take pot luck! but be patient with it.
